A CROSS ON HIS BACK.
It Was Made With Chalk, but Was Too Heavy to Carry.
There is a story of an envious tailor current with the French peasantry. He fancied that his neighbor, who received a pension for the loss of an arm incurred while fighting for his country, was better off than himself. Both men went to pay their rent on the same day.
"That's a lucky man," said the tailor to the landlord. "He gets well paid for his arm."
"But who would be willing to part with an arm, even if he were paid for it?" said the landlord.
"I would," declared the tailor.
"You!" cried the landlord. "Why, man, you wouldn't be willing to bear anything of the sort, no matter how much you were paid for it."
"I wish some one would try me."
"Now, see here," said the landlord, who had studied human nature, "I'll tell you what, if you'll wear even so much as a chalk mark on your back I'll remit your rent as long as you wear it on your coat so it can be seen, the condition being that you tell no one why it is there."
"Agreed," said the tailor eagerly. "That's an easy way to pay rent!"
So the chalk mark in the form of a cross was made on the back of his coat, and the delighted tailor sallied forth upon the street.
Strangers and acquaintances hailed him to tell him of the mark on his back. Jokes were made at his expense, children laughed and pointed at him, and his wife annoyed him with questions and with conjugal familiarity told him he was a fool. The usually amiable man grew surly and morose; he shunned men, women and children and frequented back streets. Before the week was up the tailor found himself embroiled in a quarrel with his best friend, his wife had threatened to leave his house and he considered himself miserable and ill used.
Finally, one night he took off his coat and rubbed out the chalk mark and said: "There! I would not wear that cross on my back another week, no, not if I could have all the money there is in Paris!"—Youth's Companion.

Knew His Time.
"A ragged boy about 10 years old," says a correspondent of the Detroit Free Press, "sat on the fence in front of an Arkansas cabin, and just as I came up his mother came to the door and called 'Moses' in a loud voice. The boy did not look around, and after a minute she called 'Abraham!' He made no move, and I was asking him how far it was to Greenville when she put out her head and called 'Luke!' He did not appear to hear and had answered me that it was seven miles when the mother raised her voice still higher and shouted 'Mark!'"
"Your mother is calling you," I said, as he paid no attention.
"No, not me," he replied.
"But who, then?"
"My brothers over in the woods. She's called for Moses, Abraham, Luke and Mark. She'll call for Phileas, Jeremiah, Judas and Abel, and if they don't come she'll yell out for Ananias, and that'll mean me, and I'll jump!"

Settled It.
He (a suitor)—Grammarians have never been quite sure of the proper distinction between "I shall" and "I will," but to my mind there is no difficulty.
She—I don't quite know the distinction myself.
He (thinking he sees his opportunity)—Well, take the question, "Will you marry me?" Supposing I ask you, your reply would be not "I will," but—
She (sympathetically)—I won't!—Judy.

SHAVING A DEAD MAN.

A Job That Occupied an Impetuous Artist About a Week.
"I have just finished shaving a dead man," said a local artist. "The job occupied me about a week and"—"Good heavens!" ejaculated a horrified friend, "what d'ye mean?" "Don't be alarmed," replied the artist calmly. "The operation was not as repulsive as you may imagine. In fact, I performed it with a brush. You see, a certain family of my acquaintance have a large oil painting of the head of the house, who departed from this vale of tears some time in the early eighties. At the time the portrait was made he wore a full beard, which was contrary to his usual custom, and the family, who remember him best with a smooth face, have been anxious ever since to get off the whiskers. I was engaged to shave the portrait, and hard times and approaching rent day persuaded me to accept the commission, which, needless to say, was highly antipathetic to my artistic instincts.
"I had to depend entirely on the recollection of the family for my data, and I found, to my alarm, that each member had retained a different impression of the old gentleman's chin. One claimed it was double and another insisted that it was sharp and clean cut; a daughter described it as 'square and determined,' and the widow assured me privately that it was shaped like the prow of an armored cruiser. Altogether I found myself in a deuce of a fix. It was no trouble to take off the whiskers; I did that in three fell swoops; but when I blocked out the jaw experimentally and called in the crowd for suggestions, there was a grand chorus of protest. Strange to say, I pleased nobody, and I have been correcting, amending, remodeling and doing it all over again ever since. One point of dispute was the location of a wart, which half the family said was on the left and half on the right. I finally effected a compromise by painting in two warts, one on each side. I got my fee all right, but before I take another tonorial job I'll go to driving a trolley car."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Curious Funeral Customs.
In Switzerland death is attended by a custom which calls upon all charitable and Christian people to show their sympathy. A notice edged with a wide black line appears in the daily papers setting forth the day and hour when sympathizers must assemble before the house of the deceased. At the time named a little cloth covered table, supporting a good sized jar, is stood before the house, table, cloth and jar all being of a somber, ebony hue, and into the latter small mourning cards, bearing the name and address of their owners, are deposited. The day the funeral takes place is the day selected for the exhibition of the jar. No ladies are allowed to follow at a Swiss funeral.

Unexpected.
"Why, Clara," said a mother to her little daughter, who was crying, "what are you crying about?"
"O-cause," sobbed the little miss, "I started to make dolly a b-bonnet, and it c-came out b-blooming!"

THE DUKE OF HUNTINGTON.

Nevada, sometimes called the people, will be permitted in the near future to wash themselves and cover their persons with new blouses when they celebrate in a becoming way a new edict lately issued by the Duke of Huntington, whose official residence is in New York. The duke occasionally makes a visit to the Pacific Coast in connection with some railroad business in that country he claims to have an interest in. When he made his last visit to the coast he informed the people of that country that he had been disappointed in procuring for them the relief he desired. That he had asked Congress to allow him one hundred years to pay the debt there is upon the Central Pacific, which Congress refused to allow, and had required him to pay the amount with interest in the near future.

The duke admitted that he was not able to pay the debt, and said, "The people are able to pay it, and will have to pay it, much before the time I had expected they would have to put up the money," which is all very well and in the order of things, as they have to pay all of the duke's debts.

The duke, having formally given notice to the people that they will have to pay the debts of the duke, including the debt upon the Central Pacific railway due to the government, which debts have been lately secured on the Central Pacific and its rolling stock, to the approximate sum of $125,000 per mile, they will have to provide the money.

The edict having gone forth from the duke that the people will have to pay, it may not be made necessary to make a special celebration of the event, as it may be considered by the duke and his aids that the people may continue for the next hundred years to celebrate it in the sweat of their brows, or until they have paid the debt.

That part of the debt due the government, the people will be pleased to learn, must be paid very soon in these good times. At the close of the time given by the duke to pay the whole debt, when our great grandchildren will be the slaves of the railroad, the duke will have returned to dust, as soul he has none.

While we write it arises in our mind that we should hear some of our readers say, "It can't be that four generations of slaves will follow as a consequence of the will and plans of Huntington." Those of our readers who have the individuality and intelligence to say "It will not be," we will meet half way and aid. It cannot be, because a generation will follow in the near future who will not fear railroads or railroad bosses.

The large advances made in the past fifty years by the control and application of forces not before in harness have brought upon the present generation conditions with which they were not familiar, and we have lived and wondered while the chains that bind us were forged within our hearing and vision. The work of the next and the next generations will be to cut and break the bands that bind us.

These generations will be familiar with the forces and their harness that have surprised us and they will make it their business to place these forces and their application in a position where they will serve man and not enslave him through their application to the affairs of man.

The question will arise respecting the manner of the work necessary to reduce these forces to the control of these generations. The answer is contained in the words "They will own them" and the bosses of the future will be directing honest men at honest labor.

The time is up to this generation to begin the work of changing private ownership of public utilities to public ownership of these utilities. Public ownership has become a pressing necessity to relieve the masses against the tyranny of private monopolies. They control government and enslave the people and rule with an iron rod, the consequences of which rule many of this generation seek to escape by falling at the feet of the oppressor, which they will not do when they have learned to rule themselves.

The first duty there is upon each of us is to learn to retain the upright position of a man and when we have so learned there will be no falling down by any of us at the feet of a boss who carries the iron rod.

The weakness of many of us before a boss is more humiliating than his lash when applied, which he in some form is continually applying to a people who, if they were aware of their strength, would relieve the boss of his job by doing the lashing themselves.

When the lash falls from the hands of the boss the little fellows, who aid him, will disappear by taking an honest job, which will be much better for themselves and the people whom they injure and the State they disgrace by aiding the boss in his rotten borough methods.

BOER WAR.

It is reported that the forces of General Buller are making progress to Ladysmith to relieve General White. It is believed that fighting is now in progress as railroad trains are coming in with wounded soldiers. Buller's position is about thirty miles from a railroad that connects with the Tugela river near which is the British base of supplies.

There are many rumors about fighting that have no well defined facts to sustain them. The most significant matters in connection with the probable present position of the armies is General Buller's orders issued to his men which warns them of the misuse by the Boers of the white flag which is considered as notice that no quarter shall be given. He also uses a phrase, "There will be no turning back," which is construed to mean that one or both armies will be destroyed.

Buller's advance forces are within seventeen miles of Ladysmith and continue to advance.

No Right to Ugliness

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, slokly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth, velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good looking, charming woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at E. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

Unversity Notes

Athletic Events.

Active work for the track events has about commenced. A good number of intending contestants for positions on the track team were at work in the gym yesterday afternoon. Although no training has been done, all the young men look as if they would be willing to start in a contest to-morrow if necessary. Yet they realize that it takes good hard work to make one fit to enter a collegiate game. They will train faithfully and may be relied upon to uphold the reputation established by last year's N. S. U. track team.

The captain, Paul Moorman, when asked as to whether this year's team would uphold the standard already set said: "It is my intention to make the standard necessary to enter the team even higher than last year. However, our team will be composed mostly of men who took part in the contests last spring."

"Do you intend introducing any new features in the mode of training?" was asked Mr. Moorman.

"Well, that is a question I am not prepared to answer as I would like to at the present time. If we succeed in securing a good trainer it is my intention to introduce a number of new ideas. The custom last year was to permit any candidate to compete for as many positions as he chose to enter. The result was that at the critical time such a man was found to be a failure in all of them. This was not the fault of the man himself. All college athletes are ambitious; they are anxious to make a record for themselves, as well as for their university. If given their own choice, they enter everything, with the hope that if not victorious in one they can win in some other. The result is that a man over-trains himself, and in the end is not fit to enter a wheelbarrow race.

"I will do away with all of this. A man will be permitted to show what he can do in all the contests. Then he will be given one position and devote all his time to training for that alone. I think that if these plans are carried into effect there will be a marked advance made in the high standard set by last year's track team."

Jamie Giles wants to be a golfer. The craze struck him yesterday, and he was circulating among his friends last night looking for information.

J. B. Jones was too ill to attend classes yesterday. No serious results anticipated. It was a sprained foot.

F. E. Rose, the newly appointed assistant professor in mathematics, arrived from Berkeley yesterday.

The Lincoln hall boys and the "down town" boys will meet on the diamond one week from to-day. A good game is expected.

Recital and Concert.

Plans are being formulated to give a recital and concert in the University gymnasium on the evening of February 2d. Professor Krall and his pupils, assisted by the Julian orchestra and the accomplished vocalist, Mrs. O. E. Dutcher, will provide the program.

The entertainment is for the purpose of liquidating some of the indebtedness incurred by building the gymnasium, and should be liberally supported.

No Admittance.

If our friends have informed us correctly this paper will be like a Peri outside the gates of Paradise. Admittance to the University grounds will be refused any representatives of this paper. Regent Evans will play the role of St. Peter at the portals.

WHEELMEN ENTERTAIN

Ladies' Evening at the Club House—

A Very Interesting Program

Rendered.

It was ladies' evening at the Wheelmen's club house. There were as many fair women as brave men in the assemblage.

The program rendered began with an overture by the Julien orchestra. Rev. F. Vernon Jones discussed clubs and other things in a manner that dispelled any melancholy that might have sat brooding upon the audience.

Miss Lizette Hoskins sang a rag time song, introducing some pretty fancy steps. She sang for encore "Because I Love You."

Kyle Kinney played two mandolin solos. Another selection by the orchestra closed the first half of the program.

There was a short intermission which was improved by the guests by inspecting the library and gymnasium of the club.

The second half opened with an orchestra, followed by a solo by George Ward.

Mrs. Jacobs, who played all the accompaniments, gave an instrumental selection.

Mrs. B. O. Shearer recited in her usual artistic manner.

Then came the event of the evening in point of interest. Messrs. Ringer of San Francisco and Higley of Portland, Oregon, gave an exhibition in the noble art of self defense. Referee Mozingo declared the event a draw.

Notice to the Public.

Any one who wears underwear socks, overalls, etc., and is contemplating a change, would do well by making a call at A. Nelson's furnishing goods store, Virginia street, where he will find the most complete line of furnishing goods of all kinds in Reno, sold at the lowest living prices.

Free employment office in connection with the store.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store; every bottle guaranteed.

A Budding Genius.

J. J. Murray of this city has finished a beautiful reproduction in oils of an illustration in a recent number of "Black and White" entitled "The Boers are Coming."

It is a spirited work. The central figure is a man on horseback, Paul Revere like, halting in front of an African hut and calling out to the English settlers that the enemy was approaching. The painting is on exhibition in Porteous' store.

Mr. Murray has received no training in art, but his genius is being self developed by arduous study.

DEMANDED BY OUR STOCKMEN

Storage of Water and Leasing of Public Lands Should Be Undertaken by the Government.

Below is a brief synopsis of an address delivered at the Fort Worth convention by Dr. J. E. Stubbs. John Sparks also addressed the convention. An abstract of it did not arrive in time for publication this morning.

Gentlemen: I wish to acknowledge the honor which you have conferred upon the commonwealth and the State University of Nevada in your invitation to me to speak upon the broad and important subject, "What Stockmen of the West and South Demand of the Federal Government."

The question implies that the stockmen of the west and south have problems to solve and difficulties to meet which cannot be solved and which cannot be overcome except by the cooperation of the power and wealth of the federal government.

It seems to me that the stockmen of the west and south may justly ask, at the hands of the government, aid in carrying out plans for the conservation and distribution of the flood waters throughout the semi-arid states and territories of the west and south.

There goes to waste annually, during the flood season of the year, when the snows are melting upon the mountains and the streams are running bank-full, water sufficient to keep fertile and productive millions of acres of land throughout the dry season.

The sources of the rivers and streams throughout the semi-arid region are, for the most part inter-state. Only federal law can adjust equitably the rights of the citizens of the various states.

A SURE CURE FOR COUG.

Twenty-five Years' Constant Use without a Failure.

The first indication of cough is hoarseness, and in a child subject to that disease it may be taken as a sure sign of the approach of an attack. Following this hoarseness is a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the cough appears, it will prevent an attack. It is used in many thousands of homes in this broad land and never disappoints the anxious mother. We have yet to learn of a single instance in which it has not proved effectual. No other preparation can show such a record—twenty-five years' constant use without a failure. Sale by Wm. Pinniger, Druggist.

Bismarck's Iron Nerve.

A Grim Death.
A rumor got about in a village in Russia, not far from the German frontier, that the corpse of a woman who had recently been buried had turned in the coffin. Everybody in the village not only believed the rumor, but ascribed the prevailing drought as the cause. A village council was held, and it was decided that the husband of the woman should have the coffin opened and the body replaced in its original position. The husband, however, promptly refused, and nothing could persuade him to yield to the unanimous wish of his fellow villagers, whereupon the latter took the matter in their own hands and went to the churchyard to dig up and open the coffin. To their great surprise the body lay in its original position. Their astonishment was not lessened when the legal authorities appeared on the scene and opened an inquiry, with a view of imposing punishment for the desecration of the grave.
The whole neighborhood was possessed with the idea that newly buried persons were to blame for the prevalence of the dry weather, for in another village, not far off, a grave was opened and the coffin unscrewed to pour water on the corpse. The benighted peasants of this village were of the opinion that this was the best way to induce the clerk of the weather to supply them with much needed rain.

A Sharp Swindler.
A fashionable young lady not long ago drove up in a handsome carriage to a private lunatic asylum, situated a few miles from Paris, and requested to see the proprietor. Her wish being acceded to, she informed the doctor that she desired to place her husband under his care to see if a cruel mania, under which he labored—viz, "that he had lost a large quantity of jewels"—could not be removed.
After some hesitation the doctor consented, and the lady drove away directly to a jeweler's in Paris and selected jewels to the value of several thousand francs and requested one of the shopmen to go with her in her carriage to procure the money for the goods she had taken. She drove with him to the asylum, and, arriving there, he was shown into a room.
The lady then sought the doctor, told him of the arrival of her husband, and getting into her carriage again drove away. The rest may be imagined, but the poor fellow was confined several days before it was found they both had been "sold." The lady was never heard of after.
